

MINT SOFTWARE SYSTEMS WINS JETBLUE AS NEW CUSTOMER!

German training management software provider MINT Software Systems proudly announces renowned US carrier JetBlue Airways as its newest customer.

Kiel, 01st April 2014 - MINT Software Systems has announced the celebration of a service agreement with the renowned US passenger airline JetBlue Airways. The contract covers the delivery of the MINT System as SaaS solution for the management of all training activities within JetBlue University with a focus on pilot, cabin crew and aircraft technician training.

German software publisher MINT Software Systems, with its headquarters in Kiel, Germany, has announced a partnership and service agreement with JetBlue Airways, the renowned US airline based in New York. "We are extremely proud to win JetBlue as our newest customer", says Christian Hollmann, Vice President of MINT Software Systems. "JetBlue have carefully evaluated various solutions available on the market. Our training management system has proven to be the best solution to match their demanding requirements. We are very happy about their decision, because it is the result of our continuous hard work, to provide an innovative and modern set of tools to manage the ever more complex training requirements of aviation and non-aviation organizations".

According to Brian North, Director of JetBlue's Technical Training, "MINT provides a single platform for our scheduling, recordkeeping and data needs while remaining scalable for JetBlue's future growth." - "In MINT, we found a vendor that went beyond a simple software usage agreement," notes Christian Popp, JetBlue's Manager, Flight Training Services. "MINT is working with us to also identify areas where we could leverage the TMS to improve business processes and solve other problems - this is a real partnership."

The agreement signed by JetBlue and MINT Software Systems includes the training management for cockpit and cabin crew and AQP management and JetBlue intends to implement MINT across all functional workgroups within JetBlue University, the training arm of the airline.
